

Scottish Firm Wins Top UK Financial Advisory Award

Scott-Moncrieff Wealth Management won a major award at the Investment Week Fund Manager of the Year Awards held in London's Albert Hall on the evening of July 8th.

The Scott-Moncrieff team, led by Raymond Ellis and Andy Cumming, took the Advisory Award, beating competition that included several well known names from the financial advisory sector.

The judges recognised the performance of Scott-Moncrieff Wealth Management as being an impressive one against a background of turbulent economic conditions and volatile stock markets.

Andy Cumming, Managing Director of Scott-Moncrieff Wealth Management, stated:

"We are delighted to win such a prestigious national award. It is recognition of the expertise and professionalism of our team in our Glasgow and Edinburgh offices that we were selected ahead of some very well known businesses in the financial advisory sector.

"Our turnover is up 14.3% on the previous trading period, particularly encouraging in a challenging year, and proof that our strategy of keeping clients well informed with regard to movement in financial markets, and articulating its affect on their financial planning, has been a successful one.

"Our prime focus is to deliver high quality wealth management advice to our clients and the judging panel recognised our track record in achieving this aim."
